

journalnow.com

Winston-Salem Journal · Editor: Steve Mann · (336) 727-7373 · news@wsjournal.com ndmark Aviation wants Keynolds han lentative agreement reached, company spokesman says

BY FRAN DANIEL

Winston-Salem Journal

Airport. Liberty Street to Smith Reynolds its maintenance operation across longer have to tow aircraft from Landmark Aviation might no American Inc. to buy the Reynolds olds hangar at Smith Reynolds is in negotiations with Reynolds The general aviation company agreement with them, and we "We've reached a tentative hope to be able to close by the end of August," Reynolds spokesman Bryan Hatchell said.

6/27/2013

tional office and meeting space. square-foot hangar and addi-Aviation would get the 35,000-With the purchase, Landmark tions, including a purchase price, were not disclosed. Other terms of the negotia-operation since Reynolds Amerition Department in December can closed its R.J. Reynolds Avia-The hangar has been out of used as part of the business and ell said. we no longer have those," Hatch-"We had aircraft that were the hangar. He said Reynolds American now has no business need for airport side of Liberty Street.

"We'll be able to have our hangar would allow Landmark to move all of its operations to the If the deal goes through, the same side that our fuel services maintenance operation on the HANGAR, Page A7

DAVID ROLFE/JOURNAL

its aviation department in 2011 The hangar has been out of operation since Reynolds American closed

From Page A4 Hanga

operation is on (now)," said Jim Hopgovernment affairs for Landmark kins, the vice president of sales and

Houston, Texas, has 50 locations in Landmark Aviation, based in maintenance facility is in Winstontenance for aircraft, and its largest provides aircraft, charter and manes for general aviation and airlines. It agement services. It also does main-The company provides fuel servictenance facility at 3821 N. Liberty St. Landmark Aviation's current main-craft, including Beechcraft. the overhaul of general aviation airis used for maintenance repair and 1947," Hopkins said. more activity when the deal goes Airport officials are hoping for cate was built in 1953. cility that Landmark Aviation will vahangar was built in 1985, and the fa-Hopkins said that the Reynolds nolds closed its corporate flight dethrough. Landmark is going to be able to ex-business out of," Hopkins said. lacilities to operate our maintenance "We'll have newer contemporary He also said that the Reynolds customers easier access to its servichangar will give Landmark Aviation's gar," he said.

Years ago, Landmark Aviation, forthe runway and taxi over to the han-"They can taxi right off the end of was part of Piedmont Airlines.

"We've been at the airport since merly Piedmont Aviation Services, fdaniel@wsjournal.com (336)727-7366 business," Davidson said nolds Airport. vidson, the director of Smith Reypand in that hangar," said Mark Dapartment, so we're very excited that "We were disappointed that Rey-sion of Forsyth County is consideronce the company moves out. gar, which is not on airport property, ing acquiring Landmark's old han-He said that the Airport Commis-

"We hope to reuse the hangar across the street to bring in more